RE: Site Inspection, Robert Clark, Miller Claims Mine, S/015/053, Emery County, Utah

Date of Inspection: July 29, 1997
Time of Inspection: 1540
Conditions: Partly cloudy, cool
Participants: Tony Gallegos, DOGM

Purpose of Inspection: To examine the site while in the area

This site was visited after leaving Tom Clark's site. For clarification purposes, the mine operations from the south to the north are: Bret Clark's site, then Bob Clark's site, and then Tom Clark's site. All three sites are immediately adjacent to each other and include surface disturbances and underground workings.

At the time of this inspection, a camper, truck, and small assortment of wood and other mining associated supplies were present on the surface. There is a small road/ramp leading down to a small ore pile. A generator was present along the road leading down to the mine portal. There was no one present at the mine site at this time. The surface disturbance associated with Bob Clark's site is less than five acres, however, it is difficult to determine which of the access roads are the responsibility of the different operators. The sites are adjacent to each other and some of the roads access more than one site.

A sketch of the surface disturbance was made before leaving the area. Additional photographs of this mine site and the adjacent operations were taken from the ridge on the other side of the canyon.
